

Ike Undergoes 'Successful' Examination

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower underwent a "normal and successful" extraction of an upper molar tooth today at a Walter Reed Hospital, where he also will receive a checkup on effects of last year's mild stroke.

The President will receive this checkup, a neurological examination, Saturday. His doctor will appraise the degree of his recovery from a cerebral occlusion which he suffered Nov. 25.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said he expects to have a statement on the neurological examination some time Saturday. Meanwhile, the President will remain in the hospital overnight.

Hagerty said one reason the President will remain in the hospital tonight is the fact that he had been taking anti-coagulant drugs since his heart attack in September, 1955. The doctors, Hagerty said, want to take every possible precaution against hemorrhaging following the tooth extraction.

Preparatory to the tooth extraction, the President quit taking his anti-coagulant drugs Thursday.

The extraction required only 15 minutes.

The President suffered a "split" molar when he bit something hard recently. He was X-rayed at the White House Thursday, and the doctors decided to pull the tooth today.

There was no indication at Walter Reed Hospital of any particular concern about the President's condition, Hagerty said he was confident the President would leave the hospital Saturday after his neurological examination.

The chief executive was apparently in good humor when he arrived at the hospital with his personal physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder.

Eisenhower smiled broadly at Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Hooton, commanding officer of the hospital, as he stepped from a White House limousine.

Just before leaving the White House the President presided at an abbreviated Cabinet meeting.

LeTourneau Helped Build Huge Projects

Some of the world's largest earth-moving projects, the building of Idlewild airport in New York city, the construction of the Alaskan highway from Dawson, Canada, to Fairbanks, Alaska, have been accomplished by the use of mammoth tractors, bulldozers and other heavy equipment designed and manufactured by R. G. LeTourneau Inc.

Mr. LeTourneau, the famed inventor, master mechanic, and affectionately known nationally as "God's business man," comes to Hope the night of March 10 where he will speak at a mass meeting in the auditorium of First Baptist church. The public is invited, and there will be no offering, said Dr. John H. McClanahan, pastor, today.

Ruth Ann Mohon, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Mohon, was injured in an accident yesterday at Hope Junior-Senior High School.

According to City Police who were not even called to the accident, but made an investigation this morning, the girl ran into the side of an auto driven by Denver Dickinson Jr., 16. The incident occurred between the Junior and Senior High School buildings.

The girl was taken to a local hospital for treatment of bruises and released.

FRONTIER TO U.S.

BUEENOS AIRES (UP)—President-elect Arturo Frondizi will visit the United States and the principal Latin American countries before his inauguration May 15, reliable sources said today. The sources said Frondizi will travel north along the Atlantic coast and will return along the Pacific Coast.

Adam Fell for the Same Bait

CHICAGO (UP)—A nameless rat, like Father Adam, was tempted by an apple and went to his doom today—thereby freeing for service a sleek aircraft which the rat had gouged merely by getting aboard.

The rat somehow got aboard the plane, a two-engine Convair, at Midway Airport Tuesday. It disregarded shouts and poundings and evaded hunters, amateur and professional. United Air Lines withdrew the aircraft from service and there it sat.

But Thursday night, 25 traps, some baited with lettuce, others with lobster or with apple, were set strategically about the plane. "It was the apple that got him," said a UAL spokesman. "That, and a plain old-fashioned rat trap."

Apparently the rat had scampered up the plane ramp Tuesday night into the plane after it had discharged its passengers.

Another Thor Missile Fired, May Return

By CHARLES TAYLOR
United Press Staff Correspondent

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—A Thor intermediate range missile, carrying a new nose cone designed to return a nuclear warhead from space and smash an enemy target, was launched with a mighty blast today.

The new technique, although perfected for military purposes, also might lend to licking the re-entry problem of a man-made satellite.

The trim missile, its blunt and rounded nose cone glinting in the bright morning sun, blasted up from the Cape Canaveral launching site a few minutes after 8 a.m. A great cloud of smoke and fire boiled up from the launching pad.

The missile slashed through a layer of clouds after 40 seconds of flight but was visible again for about 20 seconds before it disappeared, trailing vapor, behind more clouds.

The Air Force announced only that the Thor was fired and said nothing about the success or failure of the flight or how far the Thor went.

In previous flights a Thor is reported to have flown some 2,000 miles, although it is designed only as a 1,500-mile range ballistic missile.

The Air Force said "the nose cone used in today's test was different from those previously used."

The nose cone was much flatter and was designed to solve the problem of re-entering the atmosphere.

The advantage of a blunt nose cone is that it spreads out the tremendous heat accumulated as the warhead streaks down at many times the speed of sound from high above the atmosphere.

There was only a dummy warhead in today's missile.

The first squadron of Thors is due to be set up in England by the end of this year, and these will be ready to strike back at any aggressor.

Heavy winds Thursday and Wednesday forced postponement of the Navy's Vanguard satellite carrier launching until next week.

But the sturdier Army Redstone missile was launched Thursday. The Redstone fueled with the new compound apparently flew successfully to its target down-range in the Atlantic.

The fuel is called hydrazine and was announced for the first time when used in the Jupiter C satellite launcher which flung the Explorer into orbit Jan. 31.

Arkansas Publicity Chief Kirby Dies

CHICAGO (UP)—Sam Kirby, executive director of the state Publicity and Parks Commission, died today at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago. He was 53.

Kirby had gone to Chicago in connection with Arkansas's activities at the Sportsman's Show. He was admitted to the hospital Wednesday.

A hospital spokesman said he appeared to have been suffering from a chronic pulmonary disease, but the exact cause of death was not immediately determined.

SAVED FROM FLAMES

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—An unidentified Negro truck driver saved a blind white man from possible death at a street intersection Thursday. The blind man, who, finding his way with a cane across a street that had been torn up for repairs, was walking unconsciously close to the open flames of burning flare pots that rimmed the repair site. The truck driver saw that the blind man was in danger of catching fire, stopped his truck and guided him to the curb. Then he got back in and drove away.

House Threat to Five-Cent Postal Stamp

WASHINGTON (UP)—The administration's five-cent stamp was still in trouble today—even though it has twice been approved by the Senate. There were indications it may take a licking in the House.

"I wouldn't be surprised to see the House cut it back to four cents," said Speaker Sam Rayburn. The House already has voted for a four-cent stamp on out-of-town letters.

The Senate approved the nickel stamp feature of the postal increase bill for the second time Thursday. Its leaders will make another attempt today to deliver a vote on the much-debated overall measure.

The bill came before the upper chamber Tuesday and has been subjected to a volley of amendments which sliced roughly 35 million dollars from the anticipated revenues.

Several other major amendments and one minor one, remained to be disposed of before the final vote. The most important change will be an attempt to tack on a 7½ per cent pay raise for about 500,000 postal employees and several other minor amendments.

So far the Senate has approved the five-cent stamp in two votes. The House last year passed a four-cent out of town stamp.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack kept alive demands for disclosure of President Eisenhower's secret "understanding" with Vice President Richard M. Nixon on the taking over of the presidency if he is disabled.

Secrecy Called Tragic
"It is tragic," said McCormack, "that the American people, or at least Congress," have not been told of the plan. He said it would have an important bearing on disability legislation.

Rep. Jack B. Brooks (D-Tex.) said Congress should pass a bill which "no it wouldn't be necessary to have any private agreements."

Recalled by House investigators, FCC Commissioner Richard A. Mank said "I would have to consider it." If President Eisenhower asks for his resignation, But he gave no indication whether he would yield to the President after refusing to quit under congressional fire.

Financial Dealings Probed
The subcommittee on legislative oversight planned to dig further into Mank's financial dealings in search of possible misconduct in connection with the award of Miami television Channel 10 to National Airlines.

Roger M. Blough, head of U.S. Steel Corp., charged a majority report of the Kefauver anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee was "thoroughly biased and distorted."

He said he wasn't surprised. Blough said that Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) followed a peculiar procedure, inviting him to testify and then issuing "a flood of statements to the press denouncing the character, motives and antecedents of your business."

The majority of the subcommittee called for a Federal Trade Commission investigation of last year's 50-a-ton steel price rise on grounds it was not justified.

Doctor Cites Fraud in State Insurance

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Nearly 20 per cent of the health and accident insurance policies sold in Arkansas defraud the public, the chairman of a special committee from the Arkansas Medical Society charged Thursday.

The statement was made by Dr. Sam Jameson of El Dorado following a closed conference of his committee with Harvey G. Combs, Arkansas Insurance Commissioner.

Dr. Jameson said he had "no idea" of the amount of money involved in "misrepresentations, abuses and downright frauds." But he said it "certainly must be considerable because of the difference in premium payment and return in many instances."

Dr. Jameson said the committee had supporting evidence in each complaint it detailed to Combs.

I lost all my money at the races, she explained, and I've just got to get to my home in Louisiana. He obliged."

Rayburn Says House May Cut to 4c Stamp

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate leaders today attempt to bring the postal bill to a final vote with the House threatening to cancel out the five-cent stamp provision.

Speaker Sam Rayburn said "I wouldn't be surprised to see the House cut it back to four cents."

Still to be acted upon before passage by the Senate was an amendment to tack on a 7½ per cent pay raise for about 500,000 postal employees and several other minor amendments.

Promotions Held Sales to Increase

By UNITED PRESS

Sales promotions and better weather helped consumer buying this week rise noticeably over last week but volume remained below a year ago, Dunn & Bradstreet reported. Men's and women's apparel and some household goods were strong spots. New passenger car sales improved from the previous week, but were again below a year ago.

Anconda Co. directors again cut the dividend, dropping it to 50 cents from 75 cents last December and $1 each in the first three quarters of 1957. Chile Copper Co., controlled by Anconda, followed the Anconda pattern by lowering its dividend to 50 cents. The cuts come in the wake of further weakness in copper prices.

American Tobacco Co., the nation's largest cigarette manufacturer, reported new highs in 1957 sales and earnings. Dollar sales rose to $1,098,092,746 from $1,091,206,358 in 1956, while net profits rose 10 per cent to $37,094,050.

12 Escape From Flood Swollen Kentucky River

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (UP)—A loaded school bus plummeted over a 50-foot bluff into the Big Sandy River today, with 18 to 24 children and the driver apparently killed or drowned.

Twelve children escaped from the bus and were rescued.

The tragedy occurred on U.S. 23 about three miles south of here this morning when bus driver John Dorosetti, 22, tried to avoid an automobile wrecker and a half-ton truck which had skidded into a ditch on the right side of the road.

Kentucky state trooper Bill Lycan, said the school bus glanced off the left rear corner of the wrecker and careened across the highway, striking the shoulder of the road and a parked car.

The bus loitered sickeningly on the edge of the bluff for a moment, then rolled over and down into the Levi's fork of the Big Sandy, swollen some 20 feet above normal stage by recent heavy rains.

Lycan said the bus did not sink immediately, and some of the children escaped through the emergency door, which Dorosetti apparently was able to open.

Donald Horn, driver of the wrecker, got on top of the bus and helped several children get out until the bus sank out of sight in the swirling water.

James Green, chairman of the Floyd County School Board, said he believed 23 children and the driver were dead. Prestonsburg High School Principal James B. Vollen issued a list of 10 high school and four grade school children unaccounted for and believed to have been on the bus.

It was possible that some may have missed the bus, and also possible that others not listed were on it.

The river was being dragged and diving equipment was sent to the scene, but the bus had not been located several hours after the accident.

The children who survived were taken to nearby homes, and it is not known how many were injured or how seriously.

Walter May, news director of radio station WPKT, returned from the scene of the accident and said 12 of the children had been rescued.

May said the bus was carrying children from Covington and Knottley Hollow schools into Prestonsburg grade school when it plowed into the wreckage of two cars which previously had collided on U.S. 23 south of here.

The bus veered off the wreckage, teetered a moment on the edge of the road, then dropped some 50 feet down an almost sheer embankment into the river, which was swollen by recent heavy rains.

The bus first landed about half in and half out of the water, May said, and remained there for a few moments, during which time driver John Dorosetti helped 12 of the children escape through the emergency door.

Then the bus fell all the way into the stream with Dorosetti and the other children still aboard and is now lost in the river. Rescuers have been unable to locate it.

Rockets Group Schedules Kholer Hearing

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate rockets committee scheduled its first public hearing on the marathon Kholer strike today and called a closed-door huddle beforehand to try to end its partisan wrangling.

The announced program—a closed-door session followed by a "tentative" public hearing—suggested the politically-tinged committee might be over. That would clear the way for testimony on the strike of the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers Union against the Kholer Co. of Koller, Wis. The strike is nearing the end of its fourth year with no settlement in sight.

No committee member would say the 4-4 party-line split on the future in the Kholer case had been resolved. But chief counsel Robert P. Kennedy said he was confident the dispute would be settled and "hopeful" this would be done today "because of our determination that the committee continue on its investigation and retain its bi-partisan concept."

Meanwhile union leader J. B. Carey expressed "shock and a disgust" that a lawyer for the rockets committee offered information about the UAW from what Carey called "a Communist-dominated union."

Carey said committee investigator John J. McGovern approached Russ Nixon, Washington representative of the left-wing United Electric Workers Union, "as part of a desperate and continuing attempt to smear the UAW and its president, Walter Reuther."

Carey is president of the International Electric, Radio and Machine Workers of the AFL-CIO, and an official of the AFL-CIO.

At issue in the committee wrangle, which has produced four votes and some sharp words, is the question of whether Walter Reuther, fast-talking president of the UAW, should be one of the first witnesses. Democrats have supported a plan which would make a Kholer Co. witness—President Herbert Kholer or chief company negotiator Lyman Conger—the lead-off witness, followed by Reuther. Republicans have opposed calling the two principals at the outset.

The strike and dispute between the Wisconsin plumbing wage firm and the Auto Workers is nearly four years old. It started in 1954 when the company refused to recognize the union as bargaining agent for its employees. A settlement appeared in the offing in 1957 but the company refused to hire back some 2,000 strikers as demanded by the union.

Secret Seal Skin Formula Is Paying Off

By DOROTHY FLANDERS
United Press Staff Correspondent

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Landlubber Jack Fouke guards a secret that has Uncle Sam happily playing nursemaid to a herd of seals.

He can turn a barrel of government-owned seal skins into plush coats and as a result, has cornered the world's seal skin trade without even going to sea.

Fouke, president of the Fouke Fur Co., is a man with a ready smile who pokes fun at his million-dollar secret—how to dye seal skins.

"Only two other persons know how," he whispered, "the vice president and the chairman of the board."

It's done with chemicals concocted by the three in a gloomy corner of their otherwise cheerful warehouse. "We call it the 'inner sanctum,'" Fouke said.

Seal fur, in its original state, is a tawny, curly, ugly covering hidden by an equally ugly black hair. It looks fine on seals—but persuading a woman to buy a coat for $1,500 is a seal of a different color.

You start with a U.S. seal, nearly the only kind in the world, Fouke said. The herd travels the waters from Japan to the Bering Sea and summers on Pribilof Island north of the Aleutians. The government plays nursemaid to the 1½ million seals, who obligingly multiply.

After natives kill the year's seal quota, Fouke sends an expedition of college students to de-blubberize the skins and ship them to St. Louis.

The skins, packed in salt and looking more edible than wear-able, become coats in just four simple steps, Fouke said. "Un-hairing, leathering, dyeing and finishing."

The black potion that coats the curly tan hair is brewed in the official laboratory by the president, vice president and board chairman.

The government values its seal herd at about 100 million dollars and demands an accounting of every skin processed. The skins are sold by the U.S. auction twice a year in St. Louis—and cash only, please.

Whiteside Is Again Before FCC Probers

WASHINGTON (UP)—House investigators today pressed accused "fixer" Thurman A. Whiteside for more financial records to look further into his activities relating to Federal Communications Commission decisions.

Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark.) of the House FCC investigating subcommittee said it Whiteside failed to produce all the records requested in a subpoena he could be cited for contempt.

"We ought to have all the records," Harris said.

Subcommittee member Charles A. Wolcottan (R-N.Y.) said Whiteside's refusal to answer questions about alleged blackmail on grounds they involved the confidence of a lawyer-client relationship was "ridiculous."

Wolcottan was to question Whiteside on his recall by the subcommittee.

The investigation so far, Harris said, has uncovered a "very bad situation" that could lead to prison terms for some individuals. He issued the warning after Whiteside, a Miami, Fla., attorney, testified Tuesday about complicated financial relationships with FCC Commissioner Richard A. Mack.

"The pattern has become very clear," Harris said. "I think there is no question that there is a ring down there in Miami that has been operating very successfully."

Whiteside, who has conceded he tried to influence Mack in a contested Miami television case, testified that Mack has received about $200 in the last five months from an agency which insured the Miami station.

Mack voted to award the TV station in question to National Airlines. Whiteside has testified that Mack has a one-sixth interest in the insurance firm, the Stambler-Shelden Agency.

Monroney predicted today the Senate will approve higher postal rates and pay raises for postal employees by nightfall after a "big fight" on a key provision.

The Oklahoma Democrat said there probably would be a "fairly close" vote on his amendment to knock out a proposed live-cent stamp for out-of-town letters.

"If the Republicans all stand together," he admitted, "we can lose."

Tack on Pay Raise

Once details of the rate bill have been thrashed out a move is slated to tack on a committée approved measure providing a 7½ per cent $20 million dollar annual pay raise for some 500,000 postal employees.

Monroney predicted an expected move by Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.) to eliminate a $240 cost-of-living bonus for low-scale employees would be "beaten over"whelmingly."

He voiced certainty the Senate would vote in the pay and rate raises together. He said it also was possible approval might come by nightfall on another bill to raise the pay of about a million "white collar" civil service workers by 7½ per cent. The civil service measure was scheduled for consideration after the postal bill is disposed of.

The House Post Office Committee Tuesday approved pay raises totaling nearly one billion dollars for about 1,500,000 postal and "white collar" government workers, including legislative and judicial employees. This compared with about $21 million dollars the two Senate pay measures would cost. The House postal raises would range from 10 to 18 per cent and the white collar civil service increase would average 11 per cent.

SEA CAPTAINS' REUNION
POOLE, England (UP)—A former German U-boat commander sent word today that he "would very much like" to spend an English holiday with a British sea captain whose ship he ordered sunk during World War II. Howard Baker, former skipper of the British freighter Tweed, said he had invited Wilhelm Schulz of Hamburg for a holiday this summer. Schulz's U-boat torpedoed Baker's vessel off the West African coast in 1941.

Palmer Takes Lead in Baton Rouge Play

BATON ROUGE, La. (UP) — First round leader Arnold Palmer teed off today in the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open determined to avoid the 1957 pitfall that saw him take the lead only to finish out of the money.

The 28 year old Latrobe, Pa., pro shot the hottest game Thursday with a five under par 67 to wind up on top in the field of 152 pros, including a handful of amateurs in the Open Tourney.

Second round play opened today on the damp country club court and the weatherman's promise of possible rain.

Palmer had to make a quick recovery in first-round play after his ball hit a tree coming into the 16th hole. A 165 yard looping drive on the next shot put the ball to within two feet of the pin. The next putt appeared to miss as the ball went by the hole, but it slowly rolled back and dropped in the cup.

Palmer, sweating slightly and grinning on the sunny, windy course, said the opening-day victory was a good turn of luck. His best this season in the winter swing was second place at Caniente, Mexico.

Defending champion Jimmy Dwyer of Kilmashie, N. Y., shot an opening 7. His 1957 victory was won with a 278 over the 6487-yard course.

Opening play of Ed (Porky) Oliver, winner of the Houston Open, was a sagger 80.

Firpo Is Now a Successful Rancher

By UNITED PRESS

Los Angeles Firpo, the "wild bull of the Pampas," was the victim but almost the winner in perhaps the most thrilling heavyweight championship fight in history. On the night of Sept. 14, 1923, the powerful but unskilled Firpo blasted Jack Dempsey clear out of the ring in the first round. Dazed, Dempsey struggled back (not entirely unassisted, some insiders said) and eventually retained his title by flooring Firpo nine times before the final count in the second round. That was the high point and the end of Firpo's short boxing career.

Whatever happened to Luis Firpo today, now 61, he is a prosperous cattle rancher near Buenos Aires and regards Jack Dempsey, whom he has visited on trips to the U.S., as one of his greatest friends.
